Wisconsin Right to Life Endorses Klenke for 88th Assembly Seat

Green Bay -John Klenke, business professional and 88th Assembly candidate announced he has earned the endorsement of Wisconsin Right to Life for his commitment to support legislative issues that would protect and enhance human life.

In a letter to Klenke, the organization offered its support for his campaign and its desire to see him in the State Assembly. “We believe your election to the State Assembly will greatly contribute to the building of a culture of life in our state where every human life is welcomed and protected.”

Klenke, a pro-life conservative, is both honored and humbled by the endorsement. Once elected, he will be adding his voice to the many legislators who believe protecting human life is critical to building a strong Wisconsin for future generations.

“The sanctity of human life is a core belief for me. In fact, protecting future generations of Wisconsinites is the foundation of my campaign. It is the reason I am fighting to balance our state budget, reduce spending and bring jobs back to our state.”

Klenke is a fiscal conservative working to balance the state budget, end irresponsible spending, and promote private-sector job growth. He is a Green Bay native who grew up in working in his father’s business, Aim Variety. John recently retired after working at Schneider National for 23 years where he held positions that included vice president of corporate strategy, treasurer and president of Schneider Finance. He and his wife Charlotte live on Green Bay’s east side; they have 6 children ranging in age from 13 to 28.
